

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

A digital image processing method for exposure adjustment of in vivo images that includes the steps of acquiring in vivo images; detecting any crease feature found in the in vivo images; preserving the detected crease feature; and adjusting exposure of the in vivo images with the detected crease feature preserved.